INTRODUCTION

Finding difficulty in identifying new, innovative growth opportunities? Do you consider yourself an environmentally and socially conscious individual? If you've answered yes to these questions, then we have a solution for you.

Sagicor Asset Management Inc. has added the Sagicor Special Opportunity Fund - Renewable Energy Fund to its suite of investment funds, providing you with an opportunity to pursue investments in non-traditional areas with significant growth potential.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results, and any expected returns or hypothetical projects may not reflect actual future performance. All investments involve risk and may result in partial or total loss. All prospective investors are strongly advised to read the supplement offering document and consult with their own tax, legal and financial advisors.

INVESTING FOR THE ENVIRONMENTALLY AND SOCIALLY CONSCIOUS

The fund focuses on green investments with an emphasis on renewable energy as well as other socially responsible investment opportunities, which are typically dominated by privately held interests.

Areas of potential investment include food security; sustainable water management; eco-friendly transport solutions; privatization of key services (sanitation and water); financially feasible developmental initiatives such as healthcare; and cultivation of environmentally-friendly technologies. The fund aims to facilitate the wider participation by a broad mix of investors in specialized projects and unique investment opportunities.

Across the globe there is a trend towards renewable energy, resulting in significant investments being made in projects aimed at facilitating the growth and development of the sector.

This has not gone unnoticed locally and regionally, with the sector being identified as one of key pillars to the restoration of economic stability in Barbados and the region. Governments have therefore placed their focus on attracting new investments in renewable energy, in addition to the creative and artistic industries, educational and health services, agro-industries, research, the international business sector and tourism.

The Government of Barbados has made a commitment to transitioning Barbados to be a 100% renewable and carbon neutral island by 2030. The transition is based on the elimination of fossil fuels for domestic consumption and the export of all hydrocarbons produced on and offshore for the generation of foreign exchange. Similar commitments have been made by other territories across the region, with Grenada also setting a goal of 100% by 2030, whilst St. Lucia's and Jamaica's goal is 50% and 20% reduction respectively.

The achievement of these goals requires the development of a framework to facilitate investment. This is being seen in Barbados with Government working with the Financial Services Commission to develop a regulatory regime for Green Energy Bonds, a new type of financial instrument that will allow those who are unable to invest in renewable energy directly, to get renewable energy credits for investing in renewable energy projects. In Jamaica we have also seen initial public offerings for renewable energy stocks to allow the Government to recoup initial outlay of capital while broadening the investor base in the sector.

POTENTIAL FOR HIGHER RETURNS OVER THE LONG-TERM

For quite some time, financial markets have been characterized by excess liquidity, as evident by the high levels of excess cash reserves in the Commercial Banks. This is due to the limited availability of domestic investments and scarcity of opportunities with attractive returns.

This Fund provides individuals with an avenue to invest excess capital with a view to realizing returns in the medium to long-term, making this a suitable investment for those with higher risk tolerance and longer-time horizons.
