YOUR OPTIONS AS A CONSUMER

Requests for Information

If you are a resident of California, you have the right to know whether we have collected any personal information relating to you and you can ask for a report detailing what information we may currently have in our records (see “Submitting Requests” section). This report will identify all information collected within the 12 months preceding the date we received your request. You may make additional requests up to a maximum of two requests in a 12-month period. We will need to verify your identity before providing you with a report.

Requests to Delete Information

You also have the right to request that any personal information we have collected about you be deleted from our records. Deletion requests may be submitted using the same process as referenced above and are subject to the same identity verification procedures.

Please note that under California law, information cannot be deleted or destroyed when used for one or more of the following purposes:

- To fulfill regulatory, statutory or legal obligation, including those assigned in a court of law or on a contractual basis.
- To complete an authorized business transaction or maintain an existing account.
- To comply with regulatory reporting requirements under the Gramm-Leach Bliley Act.
- To comply with the California Electronic Communications Privacy Act.
- To exercise free speech, ensure the right of another consumer to exercise his or her right of free speech, or exercise another right provided for by law.
- To debug or identify and repair errors that impair existing intended functionality of our systems.
- To engage in public or peer-reviewed scientific, historical, or statistical research in the public interest that adheres to all other applicable ethics and privacy laws, when the businesses’ deletion of the information is likely to render impossible or seriously impair the achievement of such research, if the consumer has provided informed consent.

- To enable solely internal uses that are reasonably aligned with the expectations of a consumer based on the consumer's relationship with Sagicor.
- To otherwise use the personal information, internally, in a lawful manner that is compatible with the context in which the consumer provided the information.

If you have made a request for deletion and our purpose for retaining the information falls under any of these exempt categories, we will provide you with written notice of the basis for declining your request.
