

A Lifetime of Good Planning

BY The Sagicor Advisor Posted January 10, 2019 In retirement

Your retirement plan should adapt to your life as it changes. For example, as your standard of living increases, you might want to save more to protect the lifestyle you've built. In addition, you will find that tax rules change over time and that new financial instruments will come on line that might work for you.

TIP: Adjust the risk exposure of your retirement investment portfolio as time goes by.

RETIREMENT PLANNING IS ABOUT MORE THAN MONEY

Your plan for retirement should cover more than just your financial well-being. As you get closer to retirement consider all aspects of your life and discuss your goals openly with your spouse, your family and your friends. For example: Do you foresee moving from your home, staying-put or moving to a retirement community? Do you have family elsewhere with whom you might want to make extended stays? Have you made arrangements for your health care and are your estate and Will in good order? (Please see our Guide to Estate Planning for more information on these topics).
