Sagicor

Give the Gift of Life!

De-Ann Smith December 22, 2021

The holiday season is a time of giving and spending time with family. As the season comes to an end – especially in such unpredictable times – many of us have started to think of ways we can express our love for our family in non-traditional ways.

For the past two years we have suffered loss, we've been separated from family for long periods of time and the overall climate has challenged us to consider the future now more than ever before.

Covid-19 has not only shown us how unpredictable life is, but how fragile. With loss after loss, it's imperative that we are prepared for anything. Many families have been faced with debt and placed in so much financial difficulty planning for funeral expenses.

The Gift of Life

When a baby is born, we celebrate life. When our loved ones pass away, we celebrate the life they lived even amid grief. How can we ensure the gift of life to our loved ones after we are gone? Life Insurance.

Learn the Basics of Life insurance here. All you need to know and understand about the concept of life insurance and how it works can be found by clicking that link!

Do you really need life insurance? Click the link to see why we all need insurance, as well as the living benefits of insurance. What does that mean? How life insurance can benefit you right now and in the future. It's not just for your beneficiaries/loved ones.

Consider giving the gift of life and call us today!