Definition of Independent Director

To be considered an independent director the Board will determine that a director has no direct or indirect material relationship with the company.

For the purposes of this definition material relationship is defined as a relationship that could in the view of the board be reasonably expected to interfere with the exercise of a director's judgment independent of management.

Each director has a responsibility to notify the board of any change in his status that may put his or her independence at risk.

On an annual basis the board will determine the independence of each director and will disclose the basis of this determination in the annual report.

The Company Secretary is responsible for ensuring that Board processes and procedures are appropriately followed and support effective decision-making and governance. He/she is appointed by, and can only be removed by the Board.

Directors who are unable to attend a board meeting have a responsibility to review board papers received prior to the meeting and submit any general comments or questions to the Company Secretary for discussion at the board meeting.

In-depth knowledge of the particulars of the Company's business is vital for each Director in making informed and objective decisions and management should be allowed direct involvement and review of operational activities. Similarly, management should communicate to Board members opportunities to interact in strategy and day-to-day business settings. Board members are strongly encouraged to take advantage of such opportunities as frequently as feasible. The Directors have complete access to the Leadership of the Company.

Selection and Composition of the Board

The Board is responsible for the over-viewing of the interest of all stakeholders on the matters as outlined above. The composition of the Board should be such that these interests are best served and therefore the Directors require diversity in skills and characteristics.

Board Compensation

The level of compensation of the Independent Directors reflects the time commitment and responsibilities of the role. It consists of a package appropriate to attract, retain and motivate Independent Directors of the quality required. The compensation is competitive and subject to regular review to what is paid in comparable situations elsewhere.

The Human Resource and Executive Compensation Committee will annually review and recommend to the Board appropriate directors remuneration. A review by the Board of the remuneration policies for Executive Directors will take place during a regular Board meeting annually.

Director Selection

Director Orientation and Education

The Board and Management will conduct a comprehensive orientation process for new Directors to become familiar with the Company's vision, strategic direction, core values, financial matters, corporate governance practices and other key policies and practices through a review of background material, meetings with senior management and visits to the Company's facilities.

The Board also recognizes the importance of education for its Directors. It is the responsibility of the Board to advise the Independent Directors about their education, including corporate governance issues. Directors are encouraged to participate in continuing Director educational training programs.

Access to outside advisors and funds
